

POWER PLANTS FOR COTTONWOOD

Half a Million to Be Spent Shortly to Tap the Waters of the Big Creek.

GIGANTIC WORKS PLANNED

INTERMOUNTAIN COMPANY IS BEHIND THE PROJECT.

Half a million dollars will be spent by the Intermountain Power company this year for four water plants and one steam plant to be located on the Big and Little Cottonwood creeks.

James J. Chambers, president of the company, has just returned from the east where he completed the details for financing the enterprise. He also settled a dispute with the government regarding the location of a damsite on the government forest reserves in the Big Cottonwood canyon, near Mill D. As soon as the weather permits work on the dam will be commenced. The dam will be 600 feet long and 85 feet deep, forming a reservoir to cover an area of seventy acres.

It is intended to store during ninety days of each year ten second feet or one-third the flow of Big Cottonwood creek. The water is to be used during the low season. A turbine wheel and generator will be put in at the dam. The principal works will be located on Little Cottonwood creek, where two water wheels and a generator for each will be installed. The steam plant will be built next year.

The company will award a contract for 6,000 kw. electrical equipment and probably one for 35,000 feet of wood and steel pipe during the next thirty days. The power will be used principally in the mining camps at Alta and Park City.

MUSICAL TRIO IS COMING

Gamble Concert Co. Will Appear in First Congregational Church Thursday.

An interesting trio of musicians will appear in this city Thursday evening, March 8, at the First Congregational church. They are Ernest Gamble, basso-cantante; Miss Verna Leone Page, concert violinist, and Samuel Lamberson, pianist and accompanist. Mr. Gamble has appeared in concert with the famous Ysaye, and the Seidl orchestra, and has sung at the Bagby musicals at the Waldorf-Astoria, and with many of the larger musical organizations throughout the country. Recent California and Oregon papers unite in praising his beautiful quality of tone and wonderfully clear enunciation.

Miss Page is declared to have a charming personality, in addition to a brilliant technique and great warmth of temperament. Her schooling has been with Jacobson, Michael, Bremer of New York and Karl Halle of Berlin.

Mr. Lamberson is a pupil of Stepanoff, the celebrated exponent of Leschetizky. It is said of him that he combines exquisite delicacy of touch and masterful strength in his playing, together with an individuality and intelligence in his work.

Mr. Guiney started his career at the Alcazar theatre in Brooklyn, N. Y., going to Boston from there, and coming directly here after being treasurer of a theatre in the latter city for a number of years.

CASE OF AWFUL DEPRAVITY

CHILD MADE ALLEGED VICTIM OF OLDER PERSONS.

Honor where it would scarcely be expected and gained at the price of liberty may be awarded to a girl of 17 and Charles Baughman. The child and Baughman and Al Miller, floor manager of the Utahna Park pavilion, and a former prizefighter, and Emma Salisbury, a woman of 22, were arraigned in the juvenile court yesterday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of the 17-year-old girl.

Miller was sentenced to six months in the county jail. Baughman and the Salisbury woman were given thirty days each and the girl was ordered to the state reform school at Ogden. Judge Brown permitted the child to make the journey from this city to the school alone. Last night she reported her arrival and the authorities corroborated her.

Baughman had only been in jail a short time when he got word to Judge Brown that his wife, who is only a girl, was seriously ill. He asked to be permitted to take her to a hospital. The judge agreed and furnished the money to pay the car fare of the man and his sick wife and other expenses. He allowed the man to go without the escort of an officer. Shortly before midnight Baughman reported to the judge that he had placed his wife in the hospital and a little later he phoned that he was back in the county jail. Judge Brown was pleased, because his confidence in both cases had been kept. There was nothing to prevent the man and the girl escaping if they wished to do so.

The three persons, Miller, Baughman and Miss Salisbury, were arrested on complaint of the girl's mother, who declared that the child, together with the Salisbury girl, Miller and Baughman, had been participating in a series of orgies in a room in the Lincoln rooming house, 88 East First South street, since last March. Much of the time, she said, her daughter, who has worked out at intervals as a domestic, has absented herself from home.

The girl was arrested by the police at the Utahna pavilion Friday night. She was in Miller's company at the time. When the case was called for trial yesterday, Judge Brown, by dint of much questioning, elicited both from Miller and the girl a full and complete confession of everything charged by the mother.

The girl and Miller admitted that he had inveigled her by promising her a ticket to Butte, Mont., several months ago. He was matched for a prize fight in Butte, and the girl had a sister living there. The Salisbury woman, although much older than the girl, swore that the younger one was responsible for her own downfall. That Judge Brown placed little credence in her story was shown by the fact that he sentenced her to jail for thirty days.

The girl in the case, who is an attractive looking young woman, was sent to the state reform school at Ogden. She agreed to go by herself, and no officer accompanied her. Judge Brown paid her fare.

METRIC SYSTEM HAS ADVOCATES

Mayors and Others Who Believe It
Will Be Welcomed When Generally Understood.

METHOD IS VERY SIMPLE

WILL PERMIT OF RAPID CALCULATION BY EVERYBODY.

Sentiment in favor of the adoption of the metric system seems to be growing judging from the opinions obtained from prominent citizens yesterday. They are as follows:

"I agree with other assayers," said W. H. Tremayne, assayer and chemist, "that the metric system is the only one. There are no fractions at all, only the decimal points to take care of, and of course that makes it very easy to calculate. I don't think that there would be so much trouble in changing as some seem to think. I think that after its complete adoption in scientific work that it will be used in all commercial work also. I hope that the present bill will pass and that it will also be declared the only standard in all lines of business."

"I think that the metric system," said J. W. Currie, assayer, "would be the best. I use it entirely now. Although I haven't thought much about it I think that probably it would work as well in other lines as it does in mine."

The Only System.

"I know that it is the only system for our work," said Frank J. Nichols, of Crismon & Nichols, assayers and chemists, when asked in reference to the universal adoption of the metric system, "but as to making other people use it in their lines of business I am not so certain that it would give as good satisfaction as the present system. I have tried the English system in my line, but it failed to be satisfactory. Not having any fractions to deal with, makes calculating very much simpler and with less chance for errors. Everyone should know which system is best for his own business and use that one."

"The metric system is the best first, last and all the time," said S. C. Dallas of Dallas & Hedges, architects. "I think that by adopting this system that thousands of dollars' worth of time would be saved in calculating. All you have to do is point off the correct number of decimal places in most of the work and there is the answer. It should only take a short time for the people of this country to learn how to use this system, as it is very simple. All architects and draftsmen know how and use it constantly. By its universal adoption all work in every line of business will be simplified."

Favors Old System.

"I don't consider that the metric system is any better than ours," said Samuel J. Paul, civil engineer and United States deputy mining surveyor. "Great complications will be the result of any change from the present system to the metric. Our foot is a more accurate measure than the meter because there will always be a difference of opinion as to the true length of the meter."

"Of course if the Littauer bill is passed I will be forced to use the metric system, although I prefer to use our system decimalized, as it is so used by all surveyors now. Any good mathematician can use any system that you want him to, and so I don't see the reason for the change. As a matter of fact, no one can advance a good reason why the metric system is better than ours, when it is decimalized."

"I am in favor of adopting the metric system for all lines of business," said J. H. Winwood, mining engineer, "although I haven't thought of it." "Although I haven't thought of it," said J. C. Craig, an architect, "since I saw the discussion in The Herald, the other day, I guess that it would be better to have the metric system, although I can't say at the present whether I would advocate a change or not."

OPERATORS LAND IN JAIL

Improved Their Opportunity to Steal Mileage Books From Oregon Short Line.

George F. Pittman and Wallace Matlocks, telegraph operators in the employ of the Oregon Short Line at Payette and Shoshone, Ida., have been arrested for stealing mileage books from the station agents where they were employed.

The two young men are from the same town in Kansas. They came west several months ago, and on the way fell in with telegraph operators who "swiped" them up, as it were, to use it as a tool to steal mileage books from the company. On their arrival here they secured employment with the Oregon Short Line at the towns mentioned, and proceeded to carry out their idea put in their minds by the telegraph operators. Both quit their places finally, and Special Agent Joseph Jones, of the company, after satisfying himself of their guilt, located Matlocks in San Francisco and Pittman in Effingham, Kan. Both were taken back to Idaho.

Both men, it is said, have made written confessions of their guilt since their arrest.

TO CATCH "BOOTLEGGERS"

Governor Cutler Advises Wasatch County Authorities to Hire Detectives.

Governor Cutler wrote a letter to the commissioners of Wasatch county yesterday advising them to engage private detectives to secure evidence against persons guilty of selling liquor to Indians on what was formerly the Utah reservation. He said that he would recommend to the next legislature the appropriation of any reasonable sum to reimburse the county for the services of the detectives.

Several times of late the commissioners have asked the state to assist them in convicting the bootleggers. It is claimed that the Indians, while they will furnish information for the arrest of liquor dealers, are invariably enjoined to deny the information by the time the trial of the accused is reached. As a result, while arrests have been frequent, only one man in the county has been punished and he pleaded guilty before he had time to secure an attorney.

MARTIN MAY FIGHT GRAB GREEN MAY RECEIVE PARDON NOVEL ELECTRIC DISPLAY

"Extras" on Conduit Are Not Viewed With Favor by One "American" Councilman.

City Councilman L. D. Martin, an "American" party man, may oppose the $75,000 conduit grab proposed by City Engineer L. C. Kelsey and Contractor P. J. Moran. Mr. Martin returned yesterday from a ten-day trip to Los Angeles. He has been absent during most of the discussion of the proposed grab.

"As a practical contractor," said Mr. Martin last night, "I will have to be shown the necessity for plastering the inside of the conduit. All practical authorities are against the use of plaster in such a case, while theoretical authorities differ."

"I wasn't here to inspect the conduit with the other councilmen, and while I shall make a thorough investigation before casting my vote, I am inclined with my present information, to oppose voting money for extras."

Mr. Martin made known his attitude immediately upon his return yesterday, and he frightened the projectors of the grab, who are using every effort to swing him into line. His vote will probably be necessary for the grabbers to control the "American" party caucus.

NIGHT OF IRISH MELODY

Entertaining Musical Program and Children's Dances Arranged for St. Patrick's.

Music-loving people of this city may enjoy an evening of Irish melodies on St. Patrick's night at the Salt Lake theatre, and at the same time aid the Kearns St. Ann's orphanage. An excellent programme has been arranged for the occasion and in addition to the musical numbers 150 children from St. Mary's cathedral and St. Patrick's church will go through some pretty exercises. Children from the orphanage to the number of thirty will take part also.

Miss Nora Gleason, who has charge of the entertainment, has the little ones in training, and they are daily growing proficient in the dances which they are to perform. They are enthusiastic over the fact that they will do something for the fatherless and motherless in the orphanage, and this has occasioned a pleasant little rivalry. But the children will not have the entire programme. Arrangements are being made to obtain the services of the best musical talent in the city for the occasion, and there will be such a singing of Irish songs and such a playing of Irish music, rollicking and joyful and sad as has not been heard in this city for a long time.

It is expected that a large sum will be realized at the concert for the orphanage.

Local Railway Company Preparing an Exhibit for Conference Week.

All the wonders of electricity will be exhibited in Aztec hall, 35 East First street south, and on the street in front of the building during the period beginning April 2 and ending April 12. It will be a Mormon conference time and the Utah Light & Railway company, which is to give the display, has made elaborate preparations to show the visitors to the city and Salt Lake people as well, some things they have never seen before.

The object of the exhibit is to educate the public generally in regard to the uses of electricity in the home, office and factory. Besides the many unique things that will be shown in the hall, there will be a street illumination which promises to attract a great deal of attention. It will be out of the ordinary and will give an idea of the possibilities of lighting streets.

There will be no charge to the street display and the exhibit in the hall will be free also. Besides showing the uses to which electricity can be put to for cooking purposes, its adaptability for heating and power purposes will also be exploited. A demonstrator will show how the chafing dish and other cooking appliances may be used, and there will be all sorts of machines, including printing presses in motion in the hall under power furnished by electric motors.

The cost of making a cup of coffee by using electricity will be shown as well as the cost of cooking a Welsh rarebit and other dishes. Lecturers will explain to the public how to obtain the best illumination at the least cost, and there will be numerous other interesting features.
